Executive National Bank goes Pink to Support Breast Cancer Research and Awareness.

Miami, FL October 23, 2009 –Executive National Bank is proud to continue its support of Susan G. Komen for the Cure Foundation. Throughout October, the bank’s five branches distributed pink ribbons and collected over $950 in donations to support breast cancer research and awareness.

Susan G. Komen for the Cure Foundation generates the largest source of nonprofit funds dedicated to the fight against breast cancer. Their most prominent event, the Race for the Cure, celebrated its 26th Anniversary, and set record breaking numbers in 2009, with over 19,000 participants registered, and over 900 survivors attending the race. For the second consecutive year, Executive National Bank participated in this philanthropic event, forming a team of thirteen employees and customers.

“As a breast cancer survivor, I’d like to thank the bank and my coworkers for participating in the Susan G Komen Race for the Cure. I appreciate their support for me and for this worthy cause,” said Bessie Tomlin, a private banker at Executive National’s headquarters in Kendall.
